We're in the progress business

The Ohio State University is an essential leader, a key economic driver and an indispensable partner in creating a successful future for the state of Ohio. In a special section inside this edition of onCampus, we take a look at several ways OSU has an impact — economic and otherwise — on the state we live in.

President E. Gordon Gee says it best in his introduction to the section: “We’re in the progress business.” The special section includes stories from the Medical Center expansion that is one of the largest single job-generating projects in Ohio history to programs that incubate small business so they can grow and emerge from an entrepreneur’s garage. The examples of Ohio State’s impact are all around us.
